

Personal Skills and Principles Capabilities

Personal Skills and Principles (PSP) is a performance enhancement company that designs, develops and delivers training which increases an organization's effectiveness. Our teambuilding, leadership development and executive coaching have helped hundreds of individuals use their personality differences to enhance performance by improving their ability to communicate, solve problems, and increase productivity. In this process individuals gain a greater understanding of self and their interpersonal needs, while gaining a greater appreciation of others and their differences.

PSP has:

- Assisted private sector companies and trade organizations with the effective use of personality theory assessment tools for 8 years
- Designed training programs that developed respect for personality differences in the media industry and trade organizations resulting in enhanced productivity
- Assisted clients with goal attainment through the utilization of our modular program known as "Total Staff Marketing" ©
- The capability to provide training in 6 different locations, training 25 individuals per location or 150 people simultaneously.
